Progress in database website construction

Heat map of predicted minor groove width was added (Figure 1). The plan for the next week is to add heat maps for parameter roll, twist, and propeller twist. And the feature of access control will be added to the content management page. Then the website will be transferred to our server.

Figure 1 Heat map of predicted minor groove width was made available.